

Dream

Dare to be someone that dreams
Who holds hope and devotions to their dreams
To see the future in those dreams
To affirm the good and positive
With overcoming the negative
Of someone telling you you are a dreamer

Dreams are what make us excel
For they are what others can not see
What the dreamer will evolve
Over years of becoming the reality

To have a fall you can appreciate the rise
To understand the meaning of fulfillment
And accepting the realities of life

We are not perfect we are just human
We live on praise and promises
But what is real for us
Is to accept ourselves
Not what others would like us to be
But what will fulfill you and your dreams.

I the dreamer have searched most of my life
To find out who I am
My years go quicker to reach the dreams I have
The dreams I want, the dreams I create
The dream that becomes the reality
Of me.

In life we have to accept the decision
Of what has prevailed in front of us
As some of us created our fears
And created the future.

To accept the future
You must start with acting on today
As every aspect in our lives will
Be affected by it.
The environment, health, and understanding
To live with one another
And knowing what is the truth about who we are.

So for me the dreamer
I create a world of hope and understanding
For friends, family and people close by
To know that I the dreamer can show
The onlookers of what dreams are made of Wisdom, freedom and love

Dedicated to Kellie Williams from Kristina Georges